The center of all wild white flowers has a bit of yellow. In each area of Guatemala the flowers (petals) are slightly different size and shape and different amount of yellow. But all wild flowers are "white."

The iPhone takes quicker, easier and better photos than a Nikon camera plus the iPhone processes the photo automatically so you don't need as much Adobe Photoshop.

Sometimes a Plumeria tree is isolated; other times there are groups of the same flor de Mayo. This frangipani tree is isolated in a bosque seco area (it's been raining so it's green at this time of year but bone dry in other months with few green leaves anywhere). The tiny white colors in the middle background are the flowers of the Plumeria tree.
